Glossary

- » Average Estimated Loss Adjusted Yield: represents the advisors estimate of the yield on the current portfolio taking into account the make up the portfolio and market conditions as of the report date. Given the complexity of certain bonds that may be in the portfolio, estimates may be used as traditional bond calculators and models may not provide accurate yield results as it relates certain bonds in the portfolio.
- » Effective Duration: calculates the expected price decline for a bond when interest rates rise by 1%. When all other factors are equal, the longer the maturity of a bond, the larger the effective duration.
- » High Watermark: where a performance fee is only payable on the basis of achieving a new highest net asset value per share as further described in the Fund supplement.
- » Risk Profile: the risk indicator is based on the volatility of the Fund's performance over the last 5 years. Where 5 years' performance history is not available the data is supplemented by proxy fund, benchmark data or a simulated historical series as appropriate. This profile is determined using historical data, as such may not be a reliable indication for the future risk profile. It is not guaranteed and may shift over time. The lowest category does not mean 'risk free'.

Risks

Market Risk: The risk that the market will go down in value, with the possibility that such changes will be sharp and unpredictable.

Currency Risk: The Fund may attempt to use FDIs to hedge against currency movements, however there is no guarantee that any attempts at hedging will be successful.

Operational Risk (including safekeeping of assets): The Fund and its assets may experience material losses as a result of technology/system failures, human error, policy breaches, and/or incorrect valuation of units. Social, political and economic developments and laws differ between regions.

Derivatives Risk: The Fund may invest in Financial Derivative Instruments (FDIs) to hedge against risk and/or for efficient portfolio management. There is no guarantee that the Fund's use of FDIs for either purpose will be successful. FDIs are subject to counterparty risk (including potential loss of instruments) and are highly sensitive to underlying price movements, interest rates and market volatility and therefore come with a greater risk.

Credit Risk: The Fund may be adversely affected if the issuer of a debt instrument fails to meet its repayment obligations. Corporate debt may be subject to credit rating downgrades which may result in the Fund experiencing losses. Sovereign debt is subject to the risk of the governmental entity being unable to meet principal and interest payments. By purchasing debt instruments, the Fund will assume this interest risk. Non-Investment grade investments have greater price volatility, loss of principal and interest, default and liquidity risks than higher rated securities.

Concentration Risk: The Fund's portfolio will be highly concentrated in the real estate sector of the U.S. Such concentration may increase the losses suffered by the Fund or reduce its ability to hedge its exposure and to dispose of depreciating assets. The lack of diversification across the Fund's portfolio may increase the losses suffered by the Fund if the real estate sector were to suffer a downturn.

Interest Rate Risk: Fixed income securities, including the prices of securities held by the Fund, will decline over short or long periods of time due to rising interest rates. Fixed income securities with longer maturities tend to be more sensitive to interest rates than fixed income securities with shorter maturities.

Liquidity Risk: The Fund may invest in securities which may, due to negative market conditions, become difficult to sell or may need to be sold at an unfavourable price. This may affect the overall value of the Fund.
